ASQ SUSTAINING MEMBER APPLICATION

TAKE YOUR ORGANIZATION TO NEW HEIGHTS

Sustaining membership provides recognition for your organization as well as the tools it needs to make a continuing commitment to employees and customers.

Sustaining Member organizations recognize the contributions of every employee in the collaborative success of their business.

No matter what your product or service, ASQ Sustaining membership aligns you with people and ideals that are vital to maximizing your organization's success.

Please use this page as a worksheet for your membership application. When its complete, transfer all selections and totals to the corresponding locations on the application.

Note: Sustaining membership benefits are available to all employees at the business address you indicate on this application. Additional Sustaining memberships are needed for other branch, plant, or address locations.

1 ASQ JOURNALS

You are entitled to receive any or all ASQ journals as part of your Sustaining membership.

Journal of Quality Technology—Covers the technical aspects of quality control, reliability, and related disciplines.

Quality Engineering—Co-published with Marcel Dekker, Inc., this journal examines in depth the practical applications of quality technology for engineers.

Technometrics—Published in conjunction with the American Statistical Association, this journal focuses on statistics for the physical, chemical, and engineering sciences.

Quality Management Journal—A source for practical applications of quality research in the broad field of management.

Software Quality Professional—Addresses the application of quality principles to the development and use of software and software-based systems.

Six Sigma Forum Magazine—Addresses the various professional development needs of all levels of Six Sigma practitioners.

2 ASQ DIVISIONS

Membership in any or all divisions is included with Sustaining membership.

Divisions are topic- and industry-specific forums established and led by ASQ members. United by a common interest, divisions offer focused learning, networking, and professional development opportunities.
