

611 East Wisconsin Avenue
P.O. Box 3005
Milwaukee, Wisconsin 53201-3005

Dear Student:

No matter what your area of study, the American Society for Quality (ASQ) can provide you with the knowledge and resources you need for your future career. ASQ is a Society of professionals and students who understand that in today's competitive marketplace quality is everyone's business.

Utilize a wealth of valuable information through ASQ's career services, courses, conferences, and Quality Information Center research services. Try reading publications like Quality Progress, Software Quality Journal, Technometrics, or Quality Management Journal to stay up to date. As a student you will be able to access ASQNet, our Internet community for members, where you will be able to interact with members, participate in topic related forums, and use the member registry to locate colleagues with interests similar to yours. The full text of Quality Progress is also available on line in ASQNet. Utilizing benefits like these can give you an advantage over others who are aiming to compete in our global marketplace.

In addition, as a student member of ASQ you can participate in a college or university student branch.

Student Branch activities include: (Mention here specific events your Student Branch offers).

As an ASQ Enrolled Student you can gain a valuable understanding of how to use quality developments, practices and principles to shape your future career. Please read the enclosed brochure for more information about the benefits of being an ASQ Enrolled Student, or contact me directly (mention here how students may reach you).

To become an ASQ Enrolled Student, call ASQ headquarters at 800-248-1946 or 414-272-8575 or join on line through www.asq.org

Sincerely,

Student Branch Advisor